Colorado Springs Went Wild Last Evening.

CELEBRATING ELECTION.

For Once the City's Invalids Were Forgotten.

WHISTLES AND FIREWORKS.

A Torchlight Procession With Floats and Transparencies—The Tuneful Gazette Whistle Heard Once More—Senator Bowen Speaks to An Immense Crowd in the North Park—He Admits Defeat but Unselfishly Rejoices in Republican Successes—A Good Word for Wolcott—Bonfires in the Streets

Let the band bellow its brassiest lay!
Burst all the trombones with blowing. I say!
Fiddlers, send skyward your sauciest tune!
Blow the inside from the mellow bassoon!
Sound the loud timbrel and let the horn toot!
Tickle the stops of the tremulous flute!
Bang the bass drum till its fat sides are sore
For Waite must go back up to Aspen once more.

It was the biggest thing in the way of a celebration the town ever saw. It was a dandy. Everybody was there and everybody whooped and howled, set off rockets, blew trumpets and cheered. The citizens of Colorado Springs were there from the wee toddler to his grandpa, and his little sister and his grandma. They were all celebrating the election of the Republican ticket and the return to good government in Colorado.

The streets began to fill up with people by 7 o'clock, and by the time the parade started there was a perfect jam all along the line of march. People seemed to be feeling good, and there was much handshaking and laughter. As a signal for starting the parade all the whistles in the city were turned loose. Among them was The Gazette whistle. It was rigged up for the occasion. A few years ago the whistle was a feature of the town in every celebration, but many had not heard it before. It whistled and shrieked and howled and moaned as it had not done for years.

The parade was formed in front of Republican club headquarters, and was in charge of Marshal Dana. The people had every conceivable device for making a noise, from a tin whistle to a horse fiddle, and they did not fail to use them. It tooko nearly an hour to get the line ready to march, but after much work it was ready and started down Tejon street.

A platoon of police came first, and Marshal Dana rode behind them. They came the Stars and Stripes, carried by a stalwart Republican, and beside him marched a man carrying the eagle. They were backed up by a delegation bearing brooms indicative of a clean sweep.

The firemen's band came came next, and played patriotic tunes throughout the evening. Then came a carriage in which rode prominent Republicans and candidates. In the first were Judge Campbell, Judge-elect of the Supreme Court; Mr. Albert Matthews, county commissioner-elect; Hon. C. G. Collais and Hon. I. J. Woodworth. In the second carriage were President Grafton and Secretary McAllister of the Republican club; Mr. Edgar Howbert and Mr. H. M Blackmer, district attorney-elect. In the third carriage was Alderman Robinson, Mr. S H Kinsley and others. Then came a line of about 100 torches.

Following the torches were a number of floats. One of these was very comical. It was made up to represent Governor Waite. He rode a burro and carried a transparency on which was printed "D n the law," and "To h—l with capital." A lively drum corps came next, and a float representing the Populist party funeral. It carried a coffin.

One of the best features of the parade come next, in the High School cadets. The boys marched and looked fine in their fine new uniforms. There were 40 of them.

The end of the parade was made up of floats which carried men armed with drums and tin horns.

In the line of march were carried many transparencies. Many of these were very happy in the inscriptions printed on them. Some of them were as follows: "Cripple Creek is All Right," and "Cripple Creek is Still in El Paso County." "After Me the Deluge." "Gone to Join McGirty," "Democrats, We Thank You," "Carry the News to Tommy," "Myron Reed will Preach the Funeral," "We are all Redeemers Now," "The Women Did Nobly." One transparency had wheels printed on it.

Every man and boy in line wore a hat of red, white and blue, and improvised out of advertising cards. These were given out by Mr. B G Robbins, the Huerfano street clothing merchant, and helped out immensely. The old torches from the Harrison campaign of 1888 were dug up from the basement of the Court House, and they lit up the scene.

The parade moved down Tejon street and out Pike's Peak avenue to Weber, where a counter march was made in front of the residence of Hon. Irving Howbert, State chairman of the Republican central committee. The house was brilliantly illuminated. The residence of Mayor Strickler, who is one of the good Democrats who voted the ticket, was also illuminated. Many other private houses were also illuminated, and all along the route red fire burned and rockets were set off. The Evening Telegraph had some very fine fire works and decorations. The parade came back to Nevada avenue and down to Vermijo street, then over to Tejon to Pike's Peak avenue, and west on Pike's Peak avenue to Cascade, up Cascade to Platte avenue, and then to Acacia Park. An immense bonfire had been lighted on Bijou street early in the evening, and lit up the park.

Senator Bowen Speaks.

Arriving at the grand stand in the middle of Acacia place, the din was so great that for a time it was thought that it would be impossible to have any speaking. While this was under discussion Hon. Thomas M Bowen arrived from Pueblo. He had sent word earlier in the day that it would be impossible for him to be here, but at the last minute had decided to come. Mr. Bowen was heartily greeted by Judge Campbell and the other gentlemen on the platform.

Mr. L. B. Grafton succeeded in getting quiet partly restored, and then made a few remarks. He said that the people had met to celebrate the greatest victory ever achieved in Colorado. Eastern people will believe that the people of Colorado have come back to their senses. It is the workingmen who should most rejoice, for it is his greatest victory. He paid a tribute to the women, and the Democrats, and all who had helped in the victory.

Senator Bowen was then introduced. He spoke for about 20 minutes, although excusing himself for the reason that he had got up out of a sick bed to come. He began by quoting the words of Gen. Grant, 'Let us have peace." He is happy that the white winged angel of peace now hovers over a redeemed Colorado. He spoke of his defeat, and said that the little part he had had, and his ambitions amounted to nothing beside the other great victory. He had gone into the fight against hopeless odds, and had hardly hoped to overcome a majority of 13,000. El Paso County had done its duty nobly. Mr. Howbert had told him that his services were needed elsewhere, and that Colorado Springs would give him a good vote if he did not come here, and for that reason he had not spoke here before. Mr Howbert had been right. He had made the campaign on the all-important question that Waite should be defeated. Perhaps he would have done better for himself to have kept to a canvass on national questions, but he did what he believed to be the patriotic thing for Colorado. He felt that every one should go home and offer up a prayer for the great deliverance that had come. The advent of Waite in politics was the advent of disorder and trouble. He was ready to forgive him and to overlook his failings. He was an old man, and had had no previous experience in public affairs. He would not care to abuse him. No State had been so accused by an administration before. Mr. Bowen says that it is the end of Populism and all the other isms in the West.

Mr. Bowen went on to tell the crowd that he is undoubtedly defeated on the face of the returns, but that he cared not for so much. He would be glad to have all the old Republicans who went after Populists and other strange gods stay with the old party hereafter. There is room for all. He paid a tribute to the women for the part they had taken, and also to the Democrats for their patriotic action. The old Republican and Democratic banners had floated for years, but of neither of them was the red flag of anarchy a part. He offered congratulations to those who had seen their duty, but he wanted to know what in God's name he could say to those who had not had sense enough to see it. Mr. Bowen said that some men have their ideals, and he has one. In very beautiful language he went on to tell that his ideal is Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania. This brought out a tremendous cheer from the crowd.

Senator Bowen says that he feels grateful to the voters of Colorado Springs for the big vote given him. The men who had gone into the fight had taken great responsibilities. He believed that few mistakes had been made. Senator Wolcott had taken considerable responsibility in that he made the fight for the Legislature. He had earned his spurs. He advised the audience to send Senator Wolcott greeting, and tell him to go back to Washington, and resume his work for silver, and that they will see that he is re-elected. The Denver News had said that old Tom Bowen is after the Senatorship, but it is not true, for Wolcott has earned his re-election. The speaker also paid a tribute to Senator Teller. Senator Bowen spoke of the good things he hopes for from the election, and again thanked the people of this county for the vote given him.

This ended the celebration, and the people went home early. They were tired but rejoiced. It was agreed that it was the biggest jubilee the town has ever had. A great many came over from Colorado City and Manitou to take part.

GOOD RIDDANCE.

Governor Waite Will Carry His Business to Chicago.

Denver, Nov. 8. Governor Waite is going to leave Colorado. He is tired of the State and disgusted with his defeat. A well known Populist says this for the Governor. He says that the latter is thinking over a proposition made to him to take up his residence in Illinois. The story has it that the People's party of Illinois have taken such a liking to the Governor that they want him not only to reside among them but also to lead them to victory as their candidate for Governor in 1896.

The reception given Governor Waite on his visit to the Windy City last week pleased him immensely and the bait held out to him by Illinois people may be taken.

It is not probable that if the Governor accepts the proposition that he will live in Chicago, but he will undoubtedly take up his residence near that city. His Illinois friends believe that he will make a great run for Governor, and they are anxious to have him come and settle among them.

General Howard Retired.

Washington, Nov 8. General orders from the War Department issued to the army to-day announced, by direction of the President the retirement from active service by operation of law of Major General Oliver O. Howard, commanding the Department of the East with headquarters at Governor's Island, N. Y. After enumerating General Howard's military service the order closes as follows:

Major General Howard's long, varied and distinguished career has been characterized by marked ability in the command of troops and great gallantry in action; by unselfish patriotism and broad philanthrophy. He has deserved the gratitude of his countrymen and the rest provided by law after the close of a long and faithful military service.

LATE RETURNS.

Revised Figures on Congressional Districts.

BOWEN PROBABLY BEATEN.

Dockery May Save His Seat—An Overwhelming Republican Majority in the House—Latest Returns From Various States.

New York, Nov. 8.—But few changes in the Congressional table were reported to-day, and the total number of Republican representatives elected to the Fifty-fourth Congress remains as about as it was given in these dispatches last night—245. This is not subject to much variation, but the official count in several districts, notably in Nevada, Nebraska, Kentucky and North Carolina, may increase or diminish this slightly. Representative Dockery of Missouri, who conceded his defeat yesterday, seems to have been elected after all, while Representative Bland, the famous silver advocate, of the same State, has been defeated by a small plurality.

Bell, the Populist Congressman from the Second Colorado district, according to reports, has defeated ex-Senator Bowen, who was running against him, and who yesterday was supposed to have been successful. The official returns may be necessary to determine the result. The same is true of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth districts of Nebraska, where the indications are that Messrs. Hainer and Anderson, the Republican candidates, have been elected in the first two districts and the Populist candidate, Kem, in the Sixth. No definite news has been received changing the figures in Kentucky. One or two districts are in doubt, and the Republicans claim that six and probably seven of their Congressional candidates have been elected.

Latest reports from North Carolina confirm the estimate made last night in these dispatches of the result of the contests for Congress that one Republican, three Democrats and five Populists had been chosen in the State. The Democrats elect but one Representative Downing, Eighteenth district—from Illinois, the Republicans but one Walker, Ninth district, from Virginia, and the Populists but one—Howard, Seventh district—from Alabama. With these changes from the figures of last night, giving the Populists one from Colorado and one from Nebraska, and the Republicans 11 of the 15 from Missouri, the total representation of each party in the lower House of the Fifty-fourth Congress will be: Republicans 245, Democrats 101, Populists 10.

Arizona has elected N. O. Murphy (Rep.), delegate to Congress. This makes the body of territorial delegates: Republicans 3, Democrats 1.

MISSING MEN.

Democratic Congressmen Lost in the Tidal Wave.

Washington, Nov. 8. Of the 219 Democrats in the present house, 146 will not return. Of this number 61 failed to receive renomination, or were not candidates, and the remained, 85, were defeated at the polls. Many of these defeated were party leaders, had served for many years and had chairmanships of important committees. Among the missing are the following:

Mr. Wilson of West Virginia, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, who has represented his district since 1883; Mr. Springer of Illinois, who was chairman of the Ways and Means committee in the Fifty-second Congress and in the present House heads the Banking and Currency committee and has represented the Thirteenth Illinois district since 1874; Mr. Bland of Missouri, the free silver advocate, who holds the chairmanship of the Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures, and has looked after the Eighth Missouri district since 1872; Mr. Cummings of New York, who has served since the Fifty-first Congress, to which he was elected to succeed S. S Cox. He at present is chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs; Mr. Hatch representing the First Missouri district, who has served since 1878, and has been chairman of the Agriculture committee for a number of years. He was a candidate for the speaker in the Fifty-second Congress and has championed the "anti-option" bill for many years; Mr. Holman of Indiana, "Father of the House" who has represented the Fourth district of his State except in the Thirty-ninth, Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Congresses, since 1859. For years he was chairman of the Appropriations committee and at present he heads the Committee on Indian Affairs. His economic policy caused him to be called the "Watch-dog of the Treasury;" Mr. Outhwaite of Ohio, a member of the Committee on Rules and chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, who began his term in 1885 in the Forty-ninth Congress, and has served the Twelfth district since.

Mr. Henderson of North Carolina, who has represented the Seventh North Carolina district since 1885, who has been chairman of the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads for a number of years, besides serving on other important committees; Mr. Heard of Missouri, who has represented the Seventh Missouri district since 1885, and who is chairman of the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. James B. Reilly of Pennsylvania, who has served the Thirteenth district three terms since 1889, is chairman of the Committee on Pacific Railroads, and during this Congress has devoted his time to the preparation of a bill looking to the settlement of the affairs of the Pacific roads.

Mr. Martin of Indiana, who looks after the interests of the Eleventh district, has served since 1889, and at present heads the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Mr. McGann, who has represented the Second Illinois district since 1891, is chairman of the Labor committee and during this Congress has endeavored to pass some measure looking to the peaceful settlement of strikes and labor troubles.

Mr. Fithian of Illinois, who represents the Seventeenth district and has served since 1889. He is the chairman of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries and the promoter of the "Free Ship" bill.

Mr. Geissenhainer, who has represented the Third New Jersey district since 1889, and is now chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization.

Mr Brown of Indiana, who has looked after the interests of the third district since 1889, and who heads the important Committee on Elections.

Mr. Del'orest, who represents the Fourth Connecticut district and who has served since 1891 and heads the Committee on Reform in the Civil Service.

Mr. Enloe of the Eighth Tennessee district, who made the fight on the Republican pension office administration, and who has served in Congress since 1887 and is chairman of the Committee on Education.

Of the eleven Democratic members of the Ways and Means committee; but three Messrs Turner of Georgia, Tarsney of Missouri and McMillin of Tennessee—retain their seats in Congress.

By the defeat of Holman and Bland and the death of Charles O'Neil of Pennsylvania, who were the oldest members of the House of Representatives in continuous service when the present Congress convened, the position of "Father of the House" is left almost without a claimant. The honor of swearing in Mr Thomas B. Reed as speaker of the Fifty-fourth Congress will probably devolve upon Mr. David B. Culberson of Texas, or Mr. Thomas J. Henderson of Illinois, both of whom entered upon Congressional life with the Forty-fourth Congress in 1875 and have served ever since. Mr. Alfred C. Harmer of Pennsylvania was elected to the Forty-second Congress in 1871 but lost his seat in the Forty-fourth Congress. Mr. Joseph G Cannon of Illinois, entered Congress in 1873, but broke the continuity of his service by failing of re-election in 1890.

*Majorities.

McIntire's plurality, 19,033.

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Nov. 8. Complete returns show the election of 16 Republican and four Democratic State Senators, which make the Senate stand: Republicans 20, Democrats 13. The election of 82 Republicans and 18 Democrats as representatives will make the Republican majority in the assembly 64.

CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8. Complete vote of the State in Tuesday's election was announced to-night, and is as follows: Coffin (Rep.), for Governor, 73,548; Cady (Dem.), 62,534; Pond (Pop.), 2,242; Bingham (Pop.), 1,907; scattering, including Socialist, 492. Coffin's plurality 15,714; majority 11,013.

DELAWARE.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 8.—The official vote in Delaware in Delaware in Governor, Marvel (Rep.) 19,882, Tunnell (Dem.) 18,637; Marvel's plurality, 1,[illegible]. For Congress, Willis (Rep.) 19,80[illegible] Bancroft (Dem.) 18,541; Willis's plurality, 1,[illegible]. A sufficient affirmative vote was cast to hold a constitutional convention.

NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 8—The total vote of the State on Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Judge of the Court of Appeals, is as follows:

For Governor—Morton 670,501, Hill 513,720, Wheeler 28,035; Morton's plurality 156,781.

For Lieutenant-Governor—Saxton 662,489, Lockwood 537,164; Saxton's plurality 125,325.

For Judge of the Court of Appeals—Haight 633,231, Brown 526,726; Haight's plurality 126,515.

These figures are taken from official returns filed with county clerks, and are correct. Two or three small towns in Hamilton county, many miles from railroad or telegraph, have not been heard from. These and a few missing districts in other counties will make slight changes in the pluralities of the winning candidates.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 8. Semi-official returns from nearly every county in the State indicate that the fusion ticket, State, Judicial and legislative, put out by the Republicans and Populists, is elected by some 20,000 majority. This gives them the State Treasurer, Chief Justice and two Associate Justices of the Supreme Court and five Judges of the Superior Court.

Congressional results follow: First district—Skinner (Pop.) 2000; Second—Woodward (Dem.); Third—Shaw (Dem.) 1000; Fourth—Stroud (Pop.) 2000, Fifth Settle 2500; Sixth—Lockhart (Dem.) 2000. Seventh—Shuford (Pop.) 750; Eighth—Linney (Pop.) 100; Ninth—Pearson (Rep.) by small majority. The legislature on joint ballot will probably be fusion.

VIRGINIA.

J. Hampton Hoge (Rep.) candidate, defeated for Congress in the Sixth district by Peter K. Otey (Dem.), will contest Otey's seat. He claims that 4,000 legal votes cast for him were thrown out by the judges of election, and charges fraud in the eastern end of the district.

TENNESSEE.

The next General Assembly of Tennessee will stand: Senate Democrats 20, Republican 9, Populists 3. One district missing will certainly return a Republican.

The House—Democrats 57, Republicans 42, Populists 7. There is a float district which is expected to return a Democrat.

AN OVERDUE STEAMER.

The Rhineland Is Now Six Days Behind Time.

New York, Nov. 8—No tidings have been heard of the Red Star line steamship Rhineland, which is now six days overdue at Antwerp. She sailed from here Oct 24 inst and since the nothing has been heard from her, although she should have reached Antwerp Friday.

The officials of the company have been besieged by people who had friends or relatives on board. She carried 180 passengers of which number 163 sailed in the steerage. The saloon passengers were: Allen H Fuller, Rev and Mrs. Sommerfelt, Dr. J. M. Huntington, Mrs. Annie S. Reed, Miss Eleanor L Reed, Miss Mabel L. Reed and Miss B C. Boudinot.

In the second cabin were Mrs. Herman Boge and child; J. L. Chamberlain, Master Harry Chamberlain, Miss Alex. Yaecuest, Miss Rosa Focy and G Casabo.

Captain Mills was in command of the ship with a crew of 150 men. She is a sister ship to the Belgenland, has a tonnage of 3682, and is 423 feet long.

The officers of the International Navigation company do not believe the Rhineland is lost, but think she has broken her shaft or met with some accident which has disabled her. They express the belief that she will be heard from soon.

Bishop Matz Resigns.

Denver, Nov. 8.—Bishop Matz of the diocese of Colorado has tendered his resignation, with a request that it be accepted as soon as possible.

This information was given the United Press correspondent late to-night by the Bishop's private secretary:

"In the absence of the vicar general, I am authorized by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Matz to announce this through the press, to the Catholic clergy and laity of this diocese, the fact that he has sent on his resignation of the see of Denver with the request that it be accepted as soon as possible.

"The Bishop considers it necessary to take this course in order to forestall inaccurate and misleading reports which may find their way into the press."

It is understood this is the final outcome of the five years' quarrel between the Bishop and Father Malone and others of the diocese.

Dr. Talmage Resigns.

New York, Nov. 8.—The association of the Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage, with the Brooklyn Tabernacle has been formally severed. His resignation is due, he said, to the fact that he does not feel that he should ask his old congregation to build the fourth church for him. He advises them to either join other churches or build for a new pastor.

Dr. Talmage's letter of resignation was dated on Monday and sent to the session. As to his future plans he says that he will either take a new pastorate or enter evangelistic work. "Preaching the Gospel to all people without money and without price."

The session last night met and formulated a letter to the presbytery asking that they formally dissolve the pastoral relations between themselves and Dr. Talmage, and also expressing regret at his action.

A Law Against Gambling.

New York, Nov. 8.—Now that it is an assured fact that the anti-gambling amendment to the constitution has been carried, the turfmen have begun to lose heart. At first they did not regard the amendment which prohibits betting, pool selling or gambling of any kind seriously. It was the consensus of opinion of the men identified with racing in this State that the proposed amendment would be lost. The bookmakers took matters easily. They argued that if it did pass there would be some way arranged to evade it. They have not lost all hope of getting a law passed that will permit racing in that State. The talent take the most somber view of the situation. They see only the frightful nightmare of daily toil for a subsistance before them under the new condition of affairs.

Tin Platers Will Arbitrate.

Pittsburg, Nov. 8.—An attempt to settle the dispute between the tin plate manufacturers association and the workers by arbitration within a few days is not improbable. A manufacturer said to-day that the manufacturers would be willing to submit their books to an accountant agreeable to both sides. If the manufacturers can show by figures that they cannot pay what the men ask, then a settlement will be reached by the men accepting a reduction.

Mike Kelly Dead.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Mike Kelly, the baseball player, died here to-night at the Emergency hospital. He came here Monday morning to join the London Gaiety Girls Theatrical company, and was taken sick that morning with pneumonia. He rallied Monday evening, but since then has been failing until his death to-night.

Mandru's Defalcation.

Massillon, O., Nov. 8. Special examination of the Stark county treasury, completed to-day reveals a deficit of $19,444 in the accounts of ex-Treasurer Mandru. Examiner Peckingpaugh reports: I find that the funds were taken between June, 1893, and June, 1894, and the deficiencies temporarily covered up by false and duplicate entries upon the cash book."

ANOTHER BIG MINE.

The Gregory On Raven Hill Comes to the Front.

SHIPS EVERYTHING IN SIGHT.

The Mine Gives the Lessees Each $50 Per Day Clear—A Few of the Shippers and Their Output—Mr W. S. Stratton Makes a Deal.

Special to The Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Nov. 8.—It is stated that the Gregory, a patented claim on Raven hill and situated near the Ida May, Jack G, and Ingham, is about to become one of the best mining propersitions in the camp. As it is at present situated there is practically no dump at the mine, as everything taken out of the mines pays. When the mine was first discovered it was nothing more than a broken mass of rock resembling an old dump pile more than anything else, but at a depth of 16 feet, however, it developed into a fine fissure vein three feet wide. The average value of the ore is $160 to the ton. The shaft at present is so shallow that the miners at work can nearly throw the ore out. Indications point to an increase in the size and value of the vein as depth is added to the shaft. The mine nets the lessees $50 each per day.

The following are the average outputs of the various noted mines of the district:

Mines.	No of Cars.

The Elkton on Tenderfoot hill, about one mile northeast of town, is now taking out some very fine looking ore. A. L. Chase has a lease and bond on the property, and feels sanguine that it will prove one of the best in camp. One hundred dollars was recently refused for a single specimen of ore from this mine. The shaft from which this ore is now being taken has reached a depth of 20 feet.

Another of the new mines on Mineral hill commenced shipping yesterday.

One of the Fay group of mines on the east side of Little Bull has now a shaft 60 feet deep, which is being sunk on a vein three feet wide, of $25 ore. Mr. Bameke of Victor is a quarter owner in the property.

The Little Kansas lode, also on the Little Bull, has a shaft 12 feet deep on a two-foot vein of $15 ore.

Mr. W. S. Stratton has purchased yet another mine. This time it is the Bob Tail and Bob Tail No. 2, on Battle mountain. Consideration $7,000. There are two or three Bob Tail claims on Battle mountain, and this is one of the least known.

Knocked Out in the Eighteenth.

St. Louis, Nov. 8. Jim Owens and Frank Zacker, St. Louis lightweights, fought 18 game rounds on an island in the Mississippi river opposite the city today. One hundred St. Louis sports, including wealthy merchants and society leaders, raised the purse of $500. The party left the city at 1 p. m. in a steam launch. The ring was hurriedly pitched and the men stripped and got to work at 3 o'clock. Zacker forced the fighting, but was cleverly stopped by Owens, who pursued Jack Dempsey's tactics, jabbing his man with straight, wicked left-hand punches and escaped without damage. Zacker was punched all over the ring in the fourth round, falling bleeding into his corner, the call of time saving him from a knockout. His nerve saved him, and he stood the punishment till the 18th round, going down completely knocked out from a left-hand uppercut. He was carried bruised and bleeding to the boat, and was unconscious for half an hour. Owens is a pupil of Professor Mooney of St. Louis, and is regarded as a world beater.

Trouble Among the Choctaws.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—The Chronicle's staff correspondent now in the field with the marshals chasing the Cook gang to-night wired his paper as follows from Muskogee, I. T.:

"This place is wild with excitement over a reported uprising of Indians of the Choctaw nation against Head Chief Gardner, the trouble arising from the execution of Silos Lewis. The people of South McAllister have prepared an appeal to the Secretary of the Interior for troops to prevent the uprising. Friends of Lewis say they will avenge his death by killing the sheriff of Tobono county who officiated at the execution."

WAITE TALKS.

HE TRIES TO ACCOUNT FOR HIS DEFEAT AT THE POLLS.

The Women and the Democrats Did It—The Fight Against Capital Was Not Appreciated by the People—He Thinks the "Money Power" Was to Blame.

Denver, Nov. 7. Governor Waite, to a representative of The Times-Sun, admitted his defeat by a large majority. He did not appear particularly dispirited, but had not apparently realized the magnitude of the Republican victory.

Although a large number of the State house officials were somewhat late in getting to the offices this morning, the governor and his office force were in their places at the usual time. Each one of his secretaries appeared to take the result very much to heart, but to all appearances the Governor was the least concerned of all. His bearing indicated that he was more relieved to know the result than disappointed at the severe defeat. To all outward appearance, he was the same man who last week confidently predicted the overwhelming victory of the Populists.

At no time during last week would the Governor for a moment admit the possibility of victory for the Republican ticket, but this morning, although he admitted the Republican victory he as yet has no conception of the tremendous majority against him. The effect on him has been to stun him for the time being, but there is every reason to believe that he will recover from the shock.

The Governor's office appeared deserted when a Times-Sun reporter entered it to-day and there was no suggestion of life except the figure of Secretary Lorenz sitting at his desk engaged in a literary composition.

The secretary's reply to a request to see the Governor was a brief wave of the hand, accompanied by a far-away look in his eyes which indicated that the thoughts of the secretary were not on the things of this earth. The Governor was seated at his table in his old familiar attitude, closely examining some papers. In answer to an inquiry as to what he thought of the result, the Governor spoke as follows.

"I don't think there is the slightest doubt but that the election has been against me," said he, "but how much the majority is I have no means of knowing as yet. There seems to be no question, however, but that McIntire has carried the State."

"How do you account for this result?" the Governor was asked.

"To my mind," said he, "it proves conclusively that the money power has dominated this election from beginning to end and the Democratic party is most responsible from the fact that they voted the Republican ticket instead of their own. I made up my mind several years ago that there was only one way to rescue the country from the conditions now existing and for which the money power is responsible and that was to fight them tooth and nail."

"I recognized that the only way to become prosperous was to put an end to their domination and I also knew that all our difficulties were due to their course. Consequently I have never made any bones of declaring my opinion of their course and advocating that the controlling power which they have exercised over all legislation be destroyed. I believed that the influence of Wall street must be removed from Congress. I believed that the legislation we have had for 20 years has been dictated by them. I knew, and other Populist leaders knew, that the only way we could get a beneficial change was by putting down the money power.

"The result in Colorado can be accounted for from the fact that the Democrats have almost to a man voted for the Republican ticket. It proves to me that there is absolutely no difference in the financial policy of the Democratic and Republican parties.

"They undoubtedly voted that ticket on account of orders received from Washington. It was the same thing in New York. While the Democrats there may not have received explicit orders, there is no doubt but that their conduct was influenced largely by a secret understanding existing between the leaders. The entire purpose can readily be perceived. It was to perpetuate and continue the gold standard for which Wall street has been contending so earnestly."

"Do you not think, Governor, that the result of yesterday may indicate that the people of the State disapprove of your course and administration for the last two years?" was asked.

"No sir; not at all," replied the Governor emphatically. "The only arguments of the Republicans during this campaign have been denunciation of my official acts in general and myself in particular. They denounce me most bitterly, but they make no specifications. They say I ought not to have called the special session of the legislature. But why? It did immense good to the people of the State.

"They say I should not have called out the National guard. But why? Could I have done otherwise in my position?

"Anyway, there is a Republican tidal wave this year all over the country. But this doesn't explain why the Democrats have so largely voted the Republican ticket. The Democrats are now reduced to the level of the Prohibitionists.

"In the first place we made a great mistake a year ago when we fused with the Democrats. I believe we should stand by Populist doctrine and nothing else.

"I think there is still a great deal of hope left for the Populists in this State, but they must abandon all idea of fusing with the Democrats.

"The result of this election will be that the Republicans will so direct their patronage that they will kill the Populist party if possible. The capitalists will use their capital as they have always done to keep down the people and to corrupt legislation. They care nothing for the laboring man. We are now on the gold standard and the inevitable result of such a financial basis is to reduce wages and raise the price of the necessities of life. Those who have money to lend will continue their endeavors to contract the currency and reduce the purchasing power of money.

"Wheat, which is already at the lowest notch, in a year's time will go still lower. The probabilities are that silver will continue to go down and what few silver mines that are left running in the State will close down entirely. Unless there are further large gold discoveries made in the State to keep up the interest in mining, that industry will go to the dogs.

"As to the woman vote, that was all against me. Our strength has been in the mining regions, but in those camps women are very scarce. Their influence was principally in the cities which were so unalterably opposed to me. I believe that is why their vote went so largely against the Populists. The women must be educated up to think for themselves and not be controlled by the money power as are the men."

"Do you think, Governor, that the Populist party will ever be in a position again to regain power?" was asked.

"I believe they will, but it may be some time. I think it will eventually be done, but I do not know exactly how it will be done. I think we will have to do it right over, their heads, however. I advocate this being done in a peaceful manner, if possible, a peaceful revolution.

"Of course, I believe the ballot is the proper method to be employed. But this has not proved efficacious in this State."

Beyond this rather vague statement the Governor would not go. He admitted that possibly the people had not considered his motives in calling out the militia, but were moved more by the results. Throughout the remainder of the morning there were a few visitors bringing more or less consoling messages to the Governor.

THE TATTLER.

Mrs. Leese remarked at a recent meeting, "When I cannot talk, I want to be buried."

Miss Lizzie Darlington, a daughter of ex-Congressman Darlington of West Chester, Pa., is about to become a lawyer.

So far Miss Anna Gould has been engaged to three princes, one count, one banker and one actor. Money makes the gossips gabble.

Mlle. Dosne, a sister of M. Thiers, has a pearl necklace of several rows, which has taken her 30 years to collect and has cost her upward of £15,000.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis and Miss Winnie Davis expect to pass this winter at the Victoria hotel, which is the winter headquarters for the southern colony in New York.

When Mrs. J. W. Mackay wants to impress her European friends with her own importance, she invites them to dinner and sets them in front of a $100,000 silver service.

Miss Florence W. Jacques has returned from her position as chief assistant to Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson, the military and naval historian of Massachusetts.

Miss Margaret A. Burke of Rochester is the latest feminine drummer. She sells parlor furniture on a route in New England and part of New York and, moreover, can always land her orders.

Miss Mary Sargent Hopkins of Boston, whose interest in the development of outdoor exercise for women has given her prominence, specially favors the bicycle as an inducement to women to keep in the open air.

Miss Edison, daughter of Mr. Thomas A. Edison, has been in Germany several months past and is now at Neu Salz recovering from a recent severe illness. There is a report abroad that she is engaged to a Saxon infantry officer.

Miss Virginia Fair might almost be taken for a Spanish girl, with her dark brown hair, flashing black eyes and brilliant complexion. Her features are pretty, but her charm lies in her bright, animated manner and her bewitching vivacity.

Signorina Theresina Labriola, the daughter of a well known Italian house, was recently graduated from the law department of the University of Rome, with the degree of doctor of law—one of the first to accomplish this result in modern Italy.

The French actress, Mme. Rejane, is now setting the fashions in Paris, having dethroned the divine if somewhat erratic Sarah Bernhardt in this regard. Rejane's hair is of a slightly brighter red than mahogany, and Parisian tresses are beginning to take on that hue.

Mrs. Cleveland's friends say she is much concerned about her increasing weight. Since the birth of Baby Esther she has been steadily gaining and now weighs 180 pounds. She has a decidedly double chin, and there is too much of the matron in her appearance for admirers of the æsthetic.

LESSON IN THRIFT.

ALL IS FISH THAT ENTERS A CHINESE NET.

Myriad Life of the Seashore at Ebb Tide. Every Form of Crustacean Utilized as Food—Lagoons of the Harbors Along the Coast—Ingenious Fish Nets.

[Special Correspondence.]

Amoy, Oct. 10. At low tide the shores of the various islands are dotted with people catching sea food of different kinds. There are very few men among them. About one quarter consists of women and three-quarters children. The energy of the latter and their fearlessness of getting wet and muddy make them far superior and more successful than the former. Their tools in trade are one or two china bowls or little pails. They would wade out in the mud or water until they reached what they thought would be good ground. One would roll a heavy stone over and examine the freshly uncovered side. Sometimes there would be all the small creatures of the sea bottom, the young devilfish, octopus, or squid. Occasionally there would be a gray sea anemone, a little tower of cartilage that can expand and contract at will, and which looks far more like a vegetable than an animal.

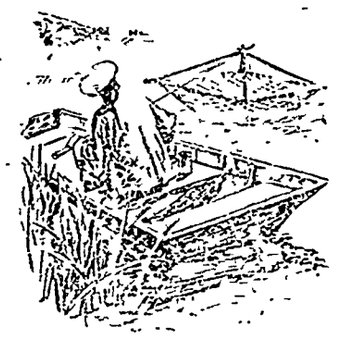
There were hundreds of red sea cucumbers and several varieties of sandworms, mudworms, snails and slugs. When the rock was exhausted, the child laid the bowl down upon it, and then stooping over until his head nearly touched the ooze plunged his hands deep in the liquid mud. Every now and then he brought out something and threw it into the bowl.

One day, overcome by curiosity, I purchased for the sum of 300 cash, or about 15 cents, the contents of 30 bowls. At first sight they seemed to be full of muddy ooze, but a second glance showed them to be alive with all kinds of squirming, wriggling, swimming, jumping and fighting organisms.

Found In the Ooze.

Some of them found a home in the mud. You could tell it by the color of their skin or shell, which looked like a translucent light mud tint, such as would be produced by stirring a spoonful of yellow earth in two gallons of clean water. There was the familiar prawn and the smaller but equally familiar shrimp.

There was another crustacean, long and slender, whose legs were so small as to resemble a fringe, and which, when it wanted to move, used its body like a spring and flopped rather than jumped. There were little fishes whose mouths and jaws grew out together in a solid piece like the end of a trumpet. The Chinese say this trumpet is used like a sucker, and that the tiny creature is a deadly parasite. There was a mud eel, dirty, blind and seemingly slow, and a mud lamprey, clear, clean and without a bone, fin, tail or aught to distinguish it from a worm, except a white line of cartilage through the middle of its body that looked like the burlesque of a backbone. There were two varieties of crabs and one of crawfish, an assortment of angleworms, limpets, whelks, terebras and minute conchs.



THE CHINESE IZAAK WALTON

Other creatures were there which did not belong to the mud, but had been left there by tide or driven there. There were the small fry of a score of kinds of fishes and among them a baby shark. A fish five inches long was dying or disabled from a savage bite which had cut away a part of the lower portion of the body. There was a savage little fellow in who mouth was still the leg of a young devilfish. There were spinefish, sea hedgehogs and a starfish no broader than an inch. It was a complete chapter of the baby fish life of Amoy.

Of the hundreds of forms scarcely ten would be eaten at home. In the far east, where the unending problem is to keep together the soul and body of millions, every living shape in the sea is utilized as food.

System of Dikes.

Beyond the main city in the harbor of Amoy and the bay of Tong are large lagoons, two-thirds bare at low tide, but which at the top of the flood are handsome bodies of water. The tide in that district is often as high as 22 feet. Both flood and ebb run like mill races and carry with them fish of all kinds and sizes.

The thrifty farmers and fishermen divide the shallower parts of the lagoons into blocks and lots, separated by dikes of clay, rock and sod built up to a foot above spring high water mark. The division resembles that pursued by oyster planters, excepting that every lot connects by two gates with either a central channel or with broad ditches embouching into the central channel. One gate allows the water to come in at half high tide, but not to go out. The second allows it to go out until merely a small pool is left in the lot. A grating and fine meshing prevent the escape of any fish that may be in a lot. The system works to a charm. The lots are nearly empty, surrounded by their dikes, while the water in the channels and ditches is comparatively deep. The tide is on the flood and raises the water in the channels and ditches, but without producing any current in them.

As the tide rises the rush begins, and the water in the channels and ditches becomes a mad torrent. Any fish there is pretty sure to be carried along and into some inclosure. At dead high tide the lots are level with the lagoon. Then, as the ebb begins, the egress gates open, the water flows out, and the ingress gates close. At three-quarters low tide there is a small pool in each lot and in each pool a goodly number of various sorts of fish.

The owner now takes out with a scoop net what he may need. He examines his gates and dikes and repairs whatever wear and tear he finds and then goes away, leaving to the sea and tide the gathering of fresh catches of fish.

An Effective Mechanism.

The Mongolian net consists of a square frame made of four thin bamboos anywhere from 12 to 24 feet in length. The bamboos are leaded so as to be slightly heavier than water and are firmly fastened together at the ends. The square is filled with a stout hemp netting with meshes from a half inch to an inch in diameter. It is fitted loosely, so as to form a shallow bag when raised out of the water. From each corner of the square long light bamboos or rattans run up and meet at a common point. This is fastened in turn to a long, stout pole, whose end can be attached or fastened to an axle ashore or on a boat. When the pole is raised, the frame is high and dry above the water. When raised to the vertical, the frame strikes it, is tilted toward it and discharges whatever it may contain. The Chinese Izaak Walton uses as bait the favorite food of the fish, crab or other creature he desires to insnare. He then lowers the frame until it rests on the bottom. The wood and net are dirt color and hardly distinguishable from the mud on which they rest. He then waits a reasonable period, the length of it depending on the habits of his would be prey. He then seizes the pole and by an ingenious arrangement of lever and counterpoise raises it in one quick pull from out the water. The rapid motion distends the netting downward and forces against it any and every living thing it contains. A single haul often brings up a dozen crabs or a score of fish, large and small. He uses this capital implement on wharves where the water is a few feet deep and on flatboats in places where it is four or five fathoms. Its use is universal in China, being as common on the lakes and rivers of the far interior as on the bays and harbors of the coast. He takes it with him wherever he goes. I saw one busy and successful in the Sacramento river and another one on the Louisiana coast. I suppose some fine day will witness it doing duty in the populous waters which begirt New York and its sister cities.

Thy Hand.

If I could hold thy hand, oh, maid divine,
I'd happy be the world would all be mine!
My soul would drift on high,
My bliss (ah, me, I sigh!)
Would be complete if I
Could hold thy hand.

If I could hold thy hand, sweet Eleanore,
I'd lucky be—I'd ask for nothing more.
With it I could defy
The pricks of sorrow. Why,
I would be rich if I
Could hold thy hand!

If I could hold thy hand a moment now,
All things before my great delight would bow.
Those royal four oh, my!
The jackpot I would try
To gather in if I
Could hold thy hand!

Information.

"Speak, and you are a dead man!"

The pistol barrel gleamed under the nose of the patient looking party who was reclining on the combination sofa.

"Do your worst," he cried, leaping to his feet. "I will speak. I demand to know how in thunder it is you walk all through this house without falling over the rugs."

But the burglar only laughed meekingly in his face and climbed out of the cellar window. Detroit Tribune.

Retrogression.

A large company was gathered at the table d'hote, as is usual in the modern romance.

The large lady had just troubled the bald gentleman for the vinegar.

"No," she was saying, "woman will not go backward."

"Except when she gets off a street car," observed the cynic, who had hitherto been silent. The youth with the blond mustache got choked with his soup, but said nothing. Exchange.

Had the Tools.

"Yes, I was sitting on the edge of the folding bed the other night," said the cheerful idiot, "playing solitaire, when all of a sudden the blamed thing closed up on me. If it had not been for my presence of mind, I think I should have smothered."

"Had sense enough to call for help, I suppose?" asked the dyspeptic boarder.

"Didn't do anything of the kind. I merely selected a pair of jacks from the deck and opened it with that." Indianapolis Journal.

Disturbed.

Oh, mother, please, mother, come home with me now.
The afternoon's slipping by fast.
You said you were coming right home from the polls
As soon as your ballot was cast.
Poor father came in for his dinner at noon,
And not a mouthful could he find,
And the words that he said as he slammed the front door
Left a strong smell of sulphur behind.
—Kansas City Journal.

A King.

He was indeed a king among men, tall, lithe, with the thews and sinews of a Samson, the eye of an eagle and a gaze that could have peered unflinchingly into the muzzle of a cannon.

As before stated, he was a king among men. But unhappily he was not among men. He was among women, where he got caught in a charge on the bargain counter. Let us draw the veil. Indianapolis Journal.

Struggles of a Growing Mind.

Tommy You say December is the last month of the year, pa?

Tommy's Father Yes.

Tommy And January is the first?

Tommy's Father Yes, certainly.

Tommy Well, how is it, then, that December always comes afore January? Chicago Record.

Poetry and Prudence.

The poet in these autumn days
Who loves to stroll through woodland ways
And muse upon the changing scene
The foliage sere, which erst was green,
And other things which poets eye
With interest or in ecstasy—
Will, if he for his health would care,
Put on thick flannel underwear.
—New York Press.

An Utter Waste.

Dashaway I have just heard from Miss Penstock what an uncomfortable voyage she had going over, and I wish now I hadn't sent her that five pound box of candy down to the steamer before she left.

Cleverton Why?

Dashaway Well, it was just like throwing money overboard. Brooklyn Life.

Just the Thing.

Gent. I have called on the recommendation of a friend to have my portrait painted. But I should like to know if you can take me in my fur coat.

Artist Oh, certainly! Fact is, you know, I am an animal painter. Humoristische Blatter.

Deprecation.

When in the stilly night
The hour of twelve has found me
Just arrived and with no light
Of any kind around me,
I tread with circumspection,
Indulging in the hope
The rocking chair lies not in wait
My toes to telescope.
Washington Star.

Useless.

"What perfectly lovely gold hairpins! Where did you get them?"

Madge Well, no matter, for they're not worth anything. I can neither button my shoes nor shake down the grate with them. Chicago Inter Ocean.

Prepared.

"Aren't you afraid she'll 'forget' she's engaged to you?"

"Oh, no! My first present to her was a ticket for a course of memory lessons." Brooklyn Life.

A Consideration.

"I'll bet I could stand four rounds in the ring with Corbett."

"That's nonsense. You overlook the first essential to a meeting."

"What's that?"

"First catch your Corbett." Washington Star.

A PALE GRAY DONKEY OF DAMASCUS,

Scorning a well-filled manger of corn and oats, slipped his halter to roam over the arid desert, where he found among the hot sands and burning rocks a scanty crop of thistles; and on the third day he perished.

The moral of this is: Don't be a pale gray donkey.

Don't wander away from home without going over the ever popular Santa Fe Route.

The Santa Fe has lines in fifteen States and Territories. It always gets there carefully and on time, considering all things, is cheaper than other roads.

Don't persuade yourself that any other way is satisfactory; especially if figuring on a trip to Chicago and East. The Santa Fe is the shortest line by thirty miles between Kansas City and Chicago, and has few crossings at grade. Its vestibuled flyers are beauties. Two of them leave Colorado points daily. Why not take a trial trip?

WHY TAKE THE WABASH

For St. Louis?

Because it is the shortest line, the best equipped line, runs free chair cars, buffet Pullmans, and gives you ample time in Kansas City for supper.

For Toledo or Detroit?

Because it is the shortest line, avoids transfer across the city in case you are going further east, and makes close connections with all trunk lines.

For New York or Boston?

Because it has solid through service from both Chicago and St. Louis via Niagara Falls; gives forty minutes stop at the falls at seasonable time in the morning.

For all other Eastern Points?

Because its service is uniformly good and you can make no mistake in asking for tickets via the Wabash. C. M. HAMPSON,

Is unquestionably the Burlington route. In point of equipment, time and service it is conceded to be superior to all other lines.

The fast vestibuled "flyer" leaving Denver daily at 9 p. m., reaches Chicago at 8:20 a. m. and St. Louis at 7:20 a. m., the second morning, in ample time to connect with all fast trains for the East and South.

It is also a fact worth remembering that the Burlington is the only line running through trains over its own tracks from Denver to Chicago and St. Louis, without change of any class of cars.

COLORADO'S OPPORTUNITY.

The effect of the election on general business all over the country will undoubtedly be good The decisive majority in the House of Representatives, and the probable Republican majority in the Senate, will effectually prevent any further tariff tinkering in the direction of calamity to American industries, and may even lead to some modification of the present tariff in the direction of more adequate protection, but Grover Cleveland is still President, and will probably veto any measures of relief that change the present tariff. The effects of that tariff will therefore continue, and business must adjust itself to the lowered duties. A great many factories must either remain shut, or go on at a reduced rate of wages. Our imports are likely to remain larger than our exports, and what is called the balance of trade will remain on the wrong side. There will be no great encouragement for men who have money to put it into manufacturing enterprises in the East, and a vast amount of capital will thus either lie idle, or seek new fields. The banks in the East are full of idle capital waiting an opportunity for profitable investment

This is Colorado's opportunity. To all the idle capital of the country she offers now the best opportunity to be seen anywhere in the United States for profitable investment. There cannot be much profit in manufacturing for the market at its present figures, but there is a chance for great profits in developing the tremendous natural resources that lie about us on every hand in this State. Here are the greatest gold fields in the world, and as gold is constantly appreciating in value compared with other things, the production of gold cannot fail to be one of the most profitable industries in the country for the next few years at least. Entirely aside from the chances of making a great strike, and multiplying the capital invested by ten or a hundred, there is now, with the introduction of new processes for treating low-grade ore, a safe basis for working claims that promise only an ordinary return on the investment—and by an ordinary return we mean at least ten per cent. net.

All that is necessary now to attract capital for the development of these resources of ours is to make them known in the proper quarters persistently, honestly, and with good judgment and tact As surely as water seeks its level, so capital will seek the place where good returns can be had. We know here that the best returns are obtainable in this State; now if we can let the people who have capital know the same thing, their money and they themselves will come here

Cripple Creek will naturally be about the first place to feel the impetus, but whatever benefits Cripple Creek will benefit Colorado Springs This is the natural place of residence of persons who have interests in the camp The influx of new people will naturally lead to a demand for real estate, for provisions, for all the necessaries of life Our real estate owners and agents, our merchants of all sorts, our hotels and boarding houses, our laboring men, will share in the benefit directly, and all classes of the community will share in it at least indirectly. At the most conservative estimate, we expect there will be 25,000 people in this city before the year 1900.

But the benefit will come, not to this county alone, but to every county in the State. There are other gold camps beside Cripple Creek There are hundreds of thousands of acres of fruitful land that will produce fruit and vegetables to feed the new thousands who are coming to the land of promise. And we are so far from the East, and freight is such an appreciable element in the cost of commodities, that men will find manufacturing a more paying business here than in the East, and many new enterprises of that sort will spring up.

And then, there is our climate. When the climate alone has drawn thousands to come and live here, what may we not expect when the opportunity is offered to make money, and at the same time live in a land of sunshine and health?

These are some of the reasons why we expect that Colorado will be the most prosperous State in the Union during the next few years. Everybody who has been here agrees that it is the best State in the Union to live in; now we believe it is going to be the best State in the Union to make money in. It is an irresistible combination.

WAITE

It is said that even Waite now admits his defeat That is more than we expected We had supposed that he would be likely to claim his election, no matter what the majority against him, and try through his Populist returning-board to change the result Perhaps he is better than we supposed, and is really unwilling to make a fight against the will of the people expressed at the polls. It is more probable, however, that he realizes the impossibility of changing the result by any amount of trickery or sharp practice. The militia would hardly obey the order if he should attempt to call them out for the purpose of retaining a seat from which he has been fairly ousted, the courts would certainly be against him, and he could only earn the further execration of all decent men if he should attempt violence at this time.

Waite is reported as saying that the women beat him We guess they had a good deal to do with it; and we cannot imagine higher compliment to their patriotism and intelligence. Waite says they must be 'educated' up to the principles of Populism We do not think that will ever come to pass Very few women have in them the making of anarchists. But when the returns are all in, we think it will be found that Waite was beaten anyhow, the vote of the women only rendered the defeat more overwhelming and exemplary

But what will Waite do now? He has been so much in the public eye for almost two years that it will be exceeding bitter for him to lapse into obscurity He has tasted of the sweets of publicity, and we do not believe he can live long without them now To go back to Aspen and live on his son-in-law, or run a little printing office, is not a pleasant thing for him to contemplate, who has been, in his way, the most prominent man in the United States for more than a year

There is a rumor that Waite was so much pleased with his reception when he was in Chicago, that he has made up his mind to go to that city and become the leader of the Chicago "reds" Now we do not wish any harm to Chicago, but we think Waite ought to be encouraged if he feels that way. We can get along without him We have no wish to keep him in this State, and gloat over his fall. There is nothing vindictive about us. We can part with him cheerfully. If he can retain notoriety by going to Chicago and making anarchist speeches every Sunday, by all means let him do it

But from now until next January, Waite will still be the Governor of Colorado. His power for harm has been largely decreased by the election, but we have no doubt that he will devise means to keep the eye of the public more or less occupied with his antics for the next two months And when he goes out, he may have this to console him: that although no new county has been named after him, his administration will never be forgotten by any of those who have had the fortune to live in Colorado during the last two years.

Perhaps this is a good time to point out to people who are not Republicans what a wise provision of the constitution is that which makes the Senate largely a hold-over body, instead of directly 'reflecting the will of the people" If the Republicans were to have as big a majority in the Senate as they will have in the House of Representatives, they could pass anything they chose over the head and the veto of the President, and we might be treated to another spectacle like the Andrew Johnson administration We think it is better as it is, and we guess the Democrats and Populists think so too, now.

We are glad the Republicans elected so many members of Congress, but there is one Democrat that we should have been glad to see elected, but who went down in the landslide Ames J. Cummings Mr. Cummings is a patriot He is a thorough American He worked and voted against the tariff monstrosity. He has had valuable experience in Congress, and if he had been re-elected he would have been one of the leaders of the minority. We need good Democrats in Congress all the time, and we are sorry so capable a man as Mr. Cummings should have been retired

So far as we can tell, at this stage of the proceedings, the amendments in this State are all defeated. A large number of those who would otherwise have voted for them did not want to risk the delay in voting which would result from hunting for the particular amendment they wanted, and making a cross by it. The Australian system, so-called, has some drawbacks

We think it is only fair that a word should be said of the splendid work done for the Republican ticket by The Times-Sun, the only Republican paper in Denver. From first to last it stood by the ticket, and the whole ticket, and now we hope it will reap the reward that is its just due. It is the best newspaper in Denver, and Mr. Eddy has made its editorial page a power in the State.

We notice that some of our contemporaries seem to think that the retirement of Mr. Bland from Congress is a blow to the cause of silver. We do not so regard it. Mr. Bland's influence, except with those who are already devoted to the silver cause, is less than nothing. The only way for the silver cause to win is to make converts, and Mr Bland drove away more than he attracted.

It seems probable that the principal amendments to the constitution of New York, which were, to be voted on in the mass, have been carried. The fate of the consolidation and rapid transit amendments is doubtful.

There is a matter for reflection in Waite's interview. He avows that he tried to make a class fight, and cater directly to the laborer as against the employer. He is astonished that he did not succeed. We are not. The laboring men are not fools, and they know that in the main what is for their employers' interest is for their interest too

The peace and quiet that prevailed at Cripple Creek on election day are the pledge of better things for the future of the great gold camp

Goodbye, Old Grover.

The American people have declared that this is a protection and not a free trade country That is the meaning of the elections in the East and the enormous gains made by the Republicans in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and other western States.—(Denver Republican

The Prohibition View.

Nearly or quite all of the readers are probably aware before this reaches them of the clean sweep made by the Republican party all over the nation yesterday, Barring South Carolina and an occasional office secured by fusion the Democrats have "nothing but leaves" In Colorado the only important office that escaped the eagle's clutches was Congressman in the Second, and both sides claim that. There is the usual difficulty in securing our vote, but enough is received to show it considerably smaller than we had expected, though there are occasional bright spots.

We have by no means made a fair showing of our party strength, and the returns given are almost universally for Governor where our candidate was badly cut.—Plaindealer.

Knox's Bon Mot.

Judge John Knox Burton's introduction of Waite as a Governor who had stood between capital and the people for two years and would stand between the people and capital for two years more did the work.—(Cripple Creek Journal

Putnam Quee Merrit. Feet.

To-day Mrs J Ellen Foster takes her departure from Colorado to labor in other fields She will carry with her the good will and esteem of all the people she met during her brilliant campaign tour in behalf of the successful ticket, and if she will only come and make her home among us she can have any office she wishes to fill in our next State election.—(Denver Republican.

Rid of the Millstone.

To say that the law and order-loving element of the State has been relieved of a load which has hung like a millstone around the neck and oppressed the heart and brain of every friend of Colorado is a mild way of putting it Even at this early day people are feeling much better and faces which have for months been shaded with the marks of care are now wreathed in smiles. Colorado has been redeemed and once more her prospects for the future are bright Her people at the polls have repudiated Waiteism and the name of Colorado will no longer be held up to the ridicule of the world.—(Pueblo Chieftain.

A CZAR'S FUNERAL.

HONORS TO ALEXANDER III AT LIVADIA.

Men of War Convey the Coffin to Sebastapol—The Prince of Wales in Attendance at the Ceremonies—A Military Guard all Along the Route.

St. Petersburg, Nov 8—The most solemn of religious services were held at noon yesterday in the church at Livadia, to which the body of Alexander III was removed the previous night Masses were said in the presence of the body The services were attended by Emperor Nicholas II, the Czarina and the Prince and Princess of Wales ,the representatives of various foreign powers and many others The Czar was deeply affected At the clusion of the services and after the royal visitors present and the troops had viewed the body, the populace were formed in line and filed past the coffin to take a farewell look at their dead ruler Many of those who looked upon the face of the dead Czar were visibly affected and expressions of sorrow were heard on all sides

The weather this morning had improved and arrangements were early perfected for the removal of the dead Emperor to Sebastapol. The cortege left the church at 8 o'clock The procession was headed by the Chief of the Palace Police and the master of ceremonies both mounted, followed by numerous troops of soldiers, including the Crimean division, composed of Tartars, then followed long files of servants of the imperial family footmen and domestics Next in line were representatives of the Jemstvo, or district assembly, the municipal authorities the public schools and the public institutions of the Yalta district All of the dead Czar's Russian and foreign decorations were carried on a cushion covered with silver cloth Immediately behind the bearers of this pillow came the clergy bearing lighted candles, then followed the coffin, borne by members of the imperial body guard and sailors from the imperial yachts The cortege proceeded on foot from Livadia to Yalta, a distance of two miles, along the beautiful coast

Following the coffin came the Czar and his suite, the Prince of Wales and the Russian Grand Dukes, then the Czarina and the Grand Duchess in mourning coaches.

The entire route of the procession was lined with troops

Upon the arrival of the cortege at Yalta prayers were offered for the repose of the soul of the dead Emperor and a salute was fired from the shore and from the ships in the harbor The coffin was then placed on board the cruiser Pamait Merkooria andt he journey to Sebastopol was begun The Pamiat Merkooria will be escorted by the Ironclad Twelve Apostles and the cruiser Oriel

Preparations at Moscow.

Moscow, Nov. 8.—This city is making ready to receive the body of Alexander III with all the pomp of mourning The streets have been hung with black The fronts of many houses and shops have been hidden with black and white cloth

Flags wound with crape are seen in every window. On the corners and in the squares funeral arches are building with feverish haste In the Kremlin scores of workmen are kept busy night and day. They have laid a wide board walk from the Cathedral of the Assumption past the palace to the Cathedral of the Archangel Michael, where the body will lie in state The immense catafalque is almost done It occupies nearly half of the small floor The Cathedral of the Assumption which is used for coronation ceremonies, is much larger than the Cathedral of the Archangel Michael, but is not so beautiful as the latter building which is filled with precious pictures and gems of gold brass and wood carving.

The city is sparing nothing in its effort to show its loyalty and sorrow. Subscriptions for a monument to Alexander III in Moscow has been opened The weather is bitterly cold but clear and dry.

Services at Washington

Washington, Nov 8—The religious services at the Russian legation in memory of the late Emperor Alexander III will begin at 9 o'clock to morrow morning and will consist of a solemn requiem mass of which the celebrant will be Bishop Nicolas, of the Greek church of San Francisco

The President and his cabinet have been invited to be present and unless unforseen contingencies of illness or other causes arise, Mr. Cleveland and his Secretary of State, and other cabinet officers will be present Invitations have also been extended, through the French ambassador M Patenotre, acting dean of the diplomatic corps, to the chief representatives of the foreign governments now in Washington, and all who are in the city have accepted As the available space in the legation for the memorial services is not capable of seating more than 125 guests, the invitation have, of necessity, been limited to the President and his cabinet and the diplomatic corps, and do not include Judges of the Supreme Court and Senators and Representatives as is usual on such occasions

Chinese Panic Stricken

London, Nov. 8—The Central News has this dispatch from Shanghai

"The panic in New Chwang and throughout Manchuria continues. Numerous country people are arriving at New Chwang and two thirds of the stores have been closed.

"Chang Chi Tung arrived in Nankin last evening with the remains of Viceroy of Liang Chiang A war levy of $3 a head has been imposed in Han Kow. The people will probably resist it."

Drowned in the Lake.

Marquette, Mich., Nov. 8.—Two fishermen, Peter and Edward Allee went out in a small open boat yesterday morning to lift nets which had been set three miles out. As they did not return and a heavy sea was on when they went out, it is believed their boat capsized and they were drowned Life savers spent all afternoon to-day in an unsuccessful search.

At Sebastopol.

Sebastopol, Nov. 8.—The cruiser Pamait Merkoobia, with the body of Alexander III, arrived here this afternoon amid the firing of salutes and the tolling of bells. The Czar and Grand Dukes carried the coffin ashore and placed it in a railway carriage fitted as a funeral chapel. The train started northward at once. High military officers will guard the body throughout the journey to St. Petersburg.

Hazing at Chicago University.

The following is clipped from a New York paper ,and one of victims is Clyde Walker of this city, a graduate of the High school last spring:

Hazing has started in the University of Chicago On Hallowe en night, Oct 31 high carnival reigned about the university grounds Freshmen were out in numbers, and made their presence known everywhere from the athletic field to Ureck's pavilion on Lake avenue, a favorite resort for students of the university On the way they decorated things with such inscriptions as "We are alive, '98," "U. of C., '98," "'98," "98."

Upper classmen didn't like this The corridors of Snell hall last night were just beginning to assume the quiet of night when about 15 black-robed and masked figures entered and crept noiselessly up the stairs They went to room of W B Walker whose home is at Colorado Springs With him was Frank Sinte

"Leaders of the verdant freshmen," said the leader of the invaders "we have come to extend to you an invitation to join a noted freshman fraternity, which is now being formed The honor is great. Do you accept the invitation?"

'Yes' replied Sinte and Walker The band fell upon them bound them hand and foot ,and carried them off Walker when seen this morning was moody, but finally told the story

"After we had told them we would go," said Walker, "we were bound and gagged and taken out, we don't know where. We were deprived of our clothes and, after going through a blood-curdling ceremony, we could feel then applying something cold to our bodies Finally, when we were taken back to Snell we found they had daubed us with green paint from head to foot I had '98' in big green letters on my shoulders and breast They didn't hurt us, but I don't care for any more"

Both freshmen say they had no hand in Thursday night's sport and do not understand why they should have been selected The hazing party concealed their identity and there is no clue to it.

A FAMOUS CHATEAU.

Malmaison, the Luxurious Home of the Empress Josephine.

[Special Correspondence.]

PARIS, Oct 27. One must wander through the quaint bourgeois town at Reuil, a few leagues from Paris, to find the forgotten home of Josephine. Undoubtedly words could easily have been found to describe "Malmaison' in its halcyon days, but one refuses to search for adjectives that are adequate to describe it in its ruin. It is dismal, pathetic, hopeless. It was here possibly that the wife of Napoleon passed the happiest and most miserable days of her life. The French, who are accredited with being a nation of sentiment, sold it some years ago to a private individual. He undoubtedly bought it as a speculation. It was a failure in that respect, for it has never been sold by the original purchaser. At the present time it is posted with announcements advertising the chateau and park for sale at 2 francs 50 centimes the meter.

It is hard to believe that Josephine could have spent the annual grant of 2,000,000 francs that Napoleon allowed her after the divorce. The long, gaunt, white building, flanked by two wings, and a small chapel with its ivy covered walls, are the only testimony to the once beautiful home. The park, whose walks were once trodden by royal feet, is now moss grown and weed choked

Inside the building there is still less to testify to Josephine's love of luxury. The first floor consists of an antechamber, saloon, library, picture gallery, billiard room and what is called the "council chamber" It was in this room that Napoleon's divorce with the widow of Beauharnais was drawn up On the second floor are the sleeping apartments of Josephine's children, Prince Eugene and his sister Hortense, as well as the chamber of Napoleon The room where Josephine died is a small octagon shaped apartment. There is not a fragment of furniture in the house. The woodwork is worm eaten, and the paper and plaster are falling from the walls. A caretaker lives in the lodge to show would be purchasers over the premises

This is one of the few historical spots that have escaped the diligent tourist. When one has made the tour of Malmaison, and the park gates clang and shut on a spot that is redolent with half forgotten romances of the beautiful empress of the French, who can help saying, "Verily, glory is deified egotism" when it does not sanctify the home of an empress?

MELBA ON THE VOICE.

VIEWS OF PATTI'S SUCCESSOR ON TRAINING AND PRACTICE.

How Marchesi Corrected a Break In Her Voice—Her Faith In Physical Exercise Lesson of Nature—Pianissimo Versus Forte Practice.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW HAVEN, Nov 6 It takes a big power to set this city vibrating, but that power lies in Mme Melba's voice As an absolutely perfect organ, pure and simple, it seems a greater marvel upon every hearing She is the true successor of Patti but with a voice suggesting more endless quantity, more spontaneous freedom, than even that of the famous little diva did ever Melba's song flows naturally and with a purity and ease so astonishing, so flawless, that one wonders where art may have begun in her case, what development her voice may have been subjected to, what training and practice she can possibly have pursued to attain such extraordinary perfection in delivery and tone.

"That is very simple," she said in her own frank way "I always sang When I went to Marchesi in Paris without one vocal lesson, I sang as well as I do to day but for one break in my voice Marchesi corrected that at once, posed my voice properly, and if this had not been done I should have totally lost my voice That's the reason why I so earnestly advise young singers to look after the proper posing of the voice above all things They will know themselves where the break lies in their registers, and if a teacher tries to force the voice over a break there is sure to be something wrong It will result probably in permanent ruin of the voice, and many a voice is thus ruined in the first stages of tuition."

Register Changes.

"It is quite possible to sing as an artist and yet be an exception to the ordinary rule as to the place of register changes A natural peculiarity in this should not be disregarded I myself carry my middle register to F sharp, half a tone beyond the prescribed limit If I were a teacher and advocated this in any special case, I would have the whole fraternity swooping down and abusing me I know my own voice, however, and am a living example that exceptional register changes may be a success"

Melba is, as a fact, a more attractive personality off the stage than she is on it Her chief charm the rarest in a great artist is simplicity Her manners are frank, buoyant, carrying an idea of jolly good fellowship in temperament rather than the important reserve in which operatic luminaries often envelop themselves, and which is so chilling to the average individual She gives you a hearty hand grip, the solid English clug of her tone, which has no foreign veneer, is reassuring, and the gleam of constant good spirits, refusing to take life too seriously, always flashing from her fine brown eyes, is cheery and refreshing

Melba looks far more a pretty, jolly woman of the world than the typical great artist devoured by emotion or else falling into luxurious embonpoint through letting the mind travel along while in dreamland while the body gets nothing to do.

"Secret No 2 about the freshness of my voice," she says "I save it all I possibly can, but I save none of my other muscles correspondingly. I take lots of physical exercise and save my voice for the public."

Melba's Personality.

Melba is slighter than last season. No photograph of her ever taken gives even a partially correct idea of her general appearance She usually looks heavy in face and figure, with a stolid, matronly expression, a dull eye and spiritless pose. She is in reality tall, alert and pliant, with a charming figure, round and supple; regular features in an oval face, always a bright, happy expression, and altogether an air of pretty dash and chic never hinted at in her photograph She dresses in perfect taste and probably knows how to wear her clothes as well as any woman on the stage today. Worth thinks so and puts forward his best ideas to drape her well poised figure Melba has adopted just enough of the Gallic flavor to add a piquant emphasis to her style

"The break," she said, "that Marchesi corrected I had felt myself was wrong, but I did not know what to do for it. I carried my lower register to F sharp I now sing from F below to F natural on the staff, change on F sharp to my middle register, which I carry to F natural; begin my head tones on F sharp again and carry them to the F natural above the staff. This covers three octaves."

Of course it is not given to every young singer to produce the voice naturally, as did Melba, needing only a guiding hint. The most valuable voices are often obscured by difficulties which it is the teacher's mission to remove, "Often," says Melba, "even when the voice is properly posed, there is a marked weakness where the registers change. Bad teachers insist on prolonged practice in this particular section of the voice, with the idea of enlarging the tone. Exercise the voice equally all over. It will, in turn, become equalized in time. Even if there be a natural defection, better retain your voice with a small spot of weakness than risk its ruin through the bad art of taxing it where nature tells plainly enough that it is not fit for taxing.

"Of course," Melba says, "while the average voice is being developed scales, solfeggi and vocalism over its full compass are essential, but once the voice has obtained its growth my experience is that if you sing in public you should save it completely in private."

Saving the Voice.

Melba was a good all around musician and pianist before she ever decided she was meant to be a singer She played well and had been accustomed to phrase carefully on a keyboard and commit music to memory before she ever had opportunity to even hum it herself. Her parents were rigid Scotch Presbyterians, who repressed sternly every vocal effort she made, for she had always declared she wanted to be an operatic artist, and they determined with equal positiveness that she shouldn't, so when, as an independent married woman, Melba got to Paris and sang first for Marchesi that greatest of living voices had been accustomed to lift itself by stealth in secret places, and the music it sang to such perfection had been faultlessly committed and thought out beforehand on the keyboard of the piano

To this day Melba does the same, regarding the habit, and commending it to young singers, as the greatest economy of vocal freshness "When young artists get a new role, they take it to the piano first, true," she says, 'but they immediately begin to sing with it They hack and hack at their voices not for the purposes of execution, but simply to memorize what they might quite as well do with their fingers on the keyboard Oh, no," said Melba, "you won't catch me simply memorizing on my voice what can be done quite as well on a mechanical instrument."

When the music is firmly engraved on Melba's mind, she uses her voice upon it, not before. When she does sing it, with the exception of her theater rehearsals, she says she always practices pianissimo The habit of forte practice Melba strictly deprecates 'If you practice forte, you cannot sing pianissimo afterward," she says "Always reserve your forces, sing pianissimo in private, and the forte will come all right in public"

'I'se the voice less and the general muscles more," she urges. "Half the young singers sit or stand by an instrument almost all day, wearing their voice to shreds, where open air exercise would do infinitely more for it, creating a sound body, from which alone a sound voice can proceed."

Fast and Exercise.

Melba takes abundant walking exercise, relying on its healthfulness as much as with a firm determination not to permit herself to grow stout She detests stoutness. In eating she does not restrict herself, except on the day she sings, when a light dinner at 2 meat, few vegetables and a glass of wine is the last thing she takes before going to the theater On this day also she runs a few scales, full voice, in the morning, and just before she goes on tries her voice a few minutes just sufficiently to warm it. Beaten egg and sherry she thinks excellent for lubricating the throat.

Nothing would induce her to go out the night before she sings, and she talks little as possible on the day itself. On her return from the theater she has always a substantial supper, which, after her fast and exertion, she declares,harmless.

"I am going to open the New York Metropolitan season, with Jean de Reszke, in 'Romeo and Juliet' on Nov.-19," she said. This statement, hitherto unpublished, threw the listener for a second off balance Eames' battle horse in opera is this The first night has always been given to the American prima donna, the first laurels always handed over the footlights to Emma Eames and Jean de Reszke together. Well, other seasons, other manners and the voice pre eminent must, it is supposed, furnish the key to the season

Colorado Springs Exchange.

Colorado Springs, Nov. 8.—While prices held about the same as yesterday the trading was not so brisk at the first call and only a few over 8,000 shares changed hands. Argentum J. reached the high mark that it did on Wednesday it being held firm at $1.15 in spite of a vigorous attempt to break the price. Mollie Gibson was not quite so strong and sold as low as $2 07 1-2, but there was not much about at that price and it closed several points stronger. The greatest advance was in Anaconda, which closed at 25 bid with none offered at less than 27. Pharmacist was also a strong stock being held at 7. Creede and Cripple Creek and Consolidated are both offered and bid for at the same figure and were not in very great demand. Isabella is firm at about the 14 mark.

As usual the second call was busier than the first. The trading on this occasion was mostly in Creede and Cripple Creek and Pharmacist which were selling in good quantities The former stock all sold at 1⅝ and closed strong at that figure bid while the bulk of Pharmacist went at 6⅞ but closed stronger at 7 at which price the last two sales were made.

Argentum J. still held at $1.15 as the selling price but Mollie was a few points weaker, the change, however, is looked upon as being only temporary. The afternoon sales brought up the total considerably making it 37,950 for the day.

The separate sales for the first call were: Alamo, 2000 at 1¾, Anaconda, 500 at 27; Argentum J., 1000 at $1.15, Isabella, 2000 at 13½; Mollie Gibson, 1500 at $2 10, 150 at $2 07½ and 300 at $2.08½.

For the second call they were: Anaconda, 1000 at 21½; Argentum J., 500 at $1.14 and 500 at $1.15; Consolidated, 2000 at 1½; Creede and Cripple Creek, 10,000 at 1⅝, Pharmacist, 11,500 at 6⅞ and 3000 at 7; Specimen, 1000 at 1.

The Denver Pit.

Special to The Gazette.

Denver, Nov. 8.—Business is getting into running order once again as was shown by the increased activity on the floor of the house this morning. Anaconda was again the busy stock and increased in price from 23½ to 24 bid with liberal selling, and at one time was as high as 24¼. There is a rumor that this stock is going right up in price and Frank Roudebush has to hustle to get this stock. He was credited with about 5000 of the shares sold. Boston and Idaho tunnel was up in price and changed hands at 13½ cash and 14 at 30 days option Big Six sold at 6@6½; this stock would go right up in price were it not for the watchfulness of the bears Pharmacist advanced two points, and Gibson closed at $2 11. All the other stocks are about the same as yesterday. Below are the official quotations and sales

Amity	0090	1	10000
Anaconda	24	24½	7100
Bangkok	6¼	6½	1500
Boston & Idaho Tun	13½	14	3800
Franklin	7½	8	2500

Mollie Gibson	2 11	2 12½	200
Mt. Rosa	4⅝	4¾	3000
Pharmacist	7¼	7⅜	4100
Work	2½	2⅝	1000

The curb sales were not very numerous and were distributed as follows. Union, 100 at 10¾; Argentum J., 200 at $1 15 and 100 at $1 12½; Portland, 100 at 33 and 200 at 32; Isabella, 2100 at 12¼; Gold Standard, 4000 at 5.

A Lot of Small Deposits

Special to The Gazette.

Denver, Nov. 8.—There was quite a crowd of small deposits at the Denver mint to-day but unfortunately they were all small ones and the whole 17 weighed less than 300 ounces, but they gave as much trouble to the officials who had them in charge as though they had aggregated 5000 ounces. The reason of this is said to be that a good deal more attention has been paid to politics than mining in the past week or so.

Of the 17 deposits, Summit was responsible for two weighing 23 ounces; San Miguel sent in three, aggregating 125 ounces; they came from the Gold Mountain company (80 ounces) and the balance from the Suffolk Gold Mining company. Routt sent along 5 ounces of placer, from the Hahn's Peak country Boulder made two deposits of 31 ounces, Park, two of 40 ounces; El Paso one of 8 ounces; "Colorado Unknown," 18 ounces, and New Mexico, four little ones of 35 ounces.

Current News.

The market is very strong.

Nearly 40,000 shares sold on change again to-day.

Pettingell and Aldrich are busy with Pharmacist

The new Pharmacist strike is said to be quite all right

Mr. George H. Webster, of the brokerage firm of Edsall, Webster & Co., was in the Denver pit yesterday.

The management of the Ben Hur company is leasing and bonding property on Bull hill for $150,000 and two years' lease.

The Strong dump has been leased to Messrs. McLaughan and Cassidy and it is said that they are making good fat wages out of it.

Since yesterday's call Gold and Globe's calling dues have been paid to the Denver exchange and to-morrow it will be called once again.

Mt. Rosa is not quite so strong as a few days ago but it is being closely watched and the bears have not much of a chance with it.

Manager Dickey is said to be very pleased with the outlook of the Ela Helean company, whose workings are right in the town of Cripple Creek.

The good news comes to hand that the Isabella company are putting aside money in the treasury. As soon as that debt is paid off the stock will bound forward.

At a meeting of the Antlers' Park Regent Leasing Company yesterday Mr. J. J. Minnihan was elected to act as president for the present and Charles Martin secretary

The Burns lessees are taking out ore from that claim working from Pharmacist ground The ore is somewhat variable in value at present but in a few days some good news may be expected

The Mattie M located at the corner of Victor and Lawrence townsites has been leased for two years to Newby & Merritt, who are putting in machinery The ample vein and the satisfactory millruns justify the leasers in the present expense

The Wonderland is located about 100 yards from the Independence A contract has been let to sink fifty feet more and two men are prosecuting the work and from the look of things the rock is improving, though it is not understood that it has anything to do with the Independence vein

C. J. More is working his two-years' lease on the Washington with seven men The shaft reaches a depth of 70 feet, with drifting 50 feet south and 70 feet north on the vein. The mine is now a good producer and a steady shipper of a good grade of ore. Machinery is on the way from Aspen and will be placed on the mine immediately, which will allow of the shipments being greatly increased.

The Strong is steadily working two 8-hour shifts of men. To secure better ventilation the men are allowed one hour's nooning and one hour's intermission takes place between the shifts. The new ore and sorting house is conveniently arranged and fitted up with screens and sorting tables. A spur will be taken on under the new ore house to facilitate the shipping and this will greatly tend to increase it.

Speaking of the Boston and Idaho Tunnel company, one of the least known company's listed with the Denver exchange The Record says: The tunnel is now in 750 feet, and driving ahead for the rich vein known to exist about 100 feet farther in than the present breast of the tunnel This vein will produce ore in large quantities running two ounces and upwards in gold and about the same value in silver. When the tunnel once taps this ore body it should not take a great while for this company to begin paying dividends

RETURN OF GOOD TIMES.

Do you remember the good times of 1888-9 and 90 in Colorado? It was the golden age of the state, and any man who hustled made lots of money. Those good old times are here again; the state is redeemed; the confidence of the investing public is restored; and beginning right now there is starting a stream of Eastern capital into Colorado that will continue indefinitely and will go into all lines of investments.

Colorado Springs has all the resources it ever did have; and it is the commercial capital, practically the owner, of the greatest gold mining camp in the world. The money that will come out of the East, and the gold dug out of the mountains at Cripple, will give Colorado Springs a greater prosperity than it ever knew, even in the good old times when the entire country was prosperous.

Now is the time for every man to do business. Get every dollar into circulation, and make up for the two lean years. This city is running over with people right now, and there is a tremendous demand for new houses; build some. Vacant lots will advance rapidly; buy some. Business rent will advance, buy business property.

We have money to loan on long time in almost any sized sums. From now on we expect to be able to fill every good application for a loan. Do business. Do some with us. We will make you money and save you money.

Reed Brothers,

THE MARKETS.

THE TENDENCY IN NEW YORK IS STILL UPWARD.

Colorado Fuel Shows a Good Advance—A Confident Feeling Prevails—A Fractional Advance in Wheat—A Large Amount of Grain is Being Fed to Live Stock.

New York, Nov 8—Money on call has been easy at 1 per cent Prime mercantile paper 3@4 per cent. Bar silver 63½ Sterling exchange is steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4 86¼ @87 for sixty days and 4 87¼@¾ for demand Posted rates 4 87½@88½. Commercial bills 4 86½@4 86¾ Government bonds have been firm; State bonds have been dull; railroad bonds have been strong Silver at the board was 64¼ bid.

The undertone of speculation at the stock exchange was firm, but the course of prices was very irregular, the opening was rather weak. Manhattan and American Sugar receded about a point each while International stocks declined ¼ to ¾ per cent. The weakness of the latter was due to sales by London to realize profits. It will be remembered that the foreigners were liberal buyers of American securities just previous to the election. The advance yesterday and today gave them an opportunity to realize profits which was not neglected The stock sold for European holders found a ready market, the shorts in St. Paul being especially gratified at the change of front on the part of the foreigners Fully 8,000 shares of this stock were sold and readily absorbed by local traders It was in the Industrials, however, that the bulls made the most progress and met with the least opportunity. American Sugar was advanced from 87¼ to 89⅜. Chicago Gas from 74⅞ to 75⅞@75½. Laclede Gas preferred from 76¼ to 79⅞. Lead from 40⅞ to 41¼, and Consolidated Gas from $1 21½ to $1 23½. Sugar was strengthened by the advance in refined Sugars of 1-16 to ⅛ cent per pound. There were some wide changes in the Anthracite Coalers New Jersey Central firsts declined ½ to 91, then bounded up to 94½ @95⅜ Lackawanna sold up 1⅜ to $1 61½ and receded to $1.60½; Delaware jumped 2 and reacted to $1.27½ Colorado Fuel advanced 1½ to 25, while the preferred was bid up to 68½ In closing dealings there was a disposition on the part of the holders to accept profits, and the early gain was partially lost The feeling, however, is more confident and believers in higher prices are placing a good deal of stress on the political changes in the Western States. The impression prevails that the newly elected Congressmen will take up the interstate commerce law and especially the provisions dealing with pooling, and that the changes, if any, will be in favor of the roads. Compared with yesterday's final figures, prices for the active stocks show losses of ¼ to ¾ per cent. American Sugar, Chicago Gas, the Anthracite Coalers, Omaha and Bay State Gas gained ⅝@1¼ per cent. In the inactive issues, Consolidated Gas rose 2. Colorado Fuel 1½, Laclede Gas preferred 3¼ and Lake Erie and Western preferred 2½. Total sales were 204,610 shares.

The bond market was active and strong. Sales were $1,101,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—So much "long" wheat was sold out yesterday that the market this morning was in a position where it was likely to be responsible to invigorating news. The Cincinnati Price Current's summary gave the necessary stimulus and although the trade was not at all times active, prices nevertheless, were very hard, and failed to yield on several occasions when the pressure to sell was noticeably great. The figures given out by the Price Current were rather startling, but the enthusiasts were of the opinion that they fell short of the actual amount being fed to stock and that the Government report on Saturday would tell a more surprising tale. It was to this gossip that the market owed its firmness throughout, notwithstanding the fact that it is generally believed that trading on the Government report was done during the latter portion of last week. The "tip" was that 80,000,000 bushels would come near the official estimate of feeding. There was no other news sufficiently encouraging to entitle it to recognition by the bulls. Cables from Liverpool were quiet and firm Continental markets were without exception lower. Exports were light, wheat and flour to the amount of only 224,604 bushels going out at the seaboard. Withdrawals from store were 11,500 bushels. Receipts were 139 cars at Chicago, 11 less than expected, and the Northwest had 1,013 December wheat opened from 53⅝ to 53⅞, advanced to 54¼, declined to 53⅞, where it closed, ¼ higher than yesterday. Estimated receipts for to-morrow 10 cars.

Corn was variable in its affiliation with wheat. Sometimes the fluctuations were in close sympathy with the larger markets, and at others there was entire independence of action. The absence of outside speculation, the weakness in cash corn and the prospects of finer weather were all regarded unfavorably. Cables were quiet and firm Receipts, 214 cars, were 14 more than expected, and 200 are estimated for to-morrow. Withdrawals from store were 59,295 bushels and 9,900 were cleared at the seaboard. The Cincinnati Price Current reported no improvement in the interior movement of corn May opened at 50½, sold at 50⅝@ 50¾, declined to 49⅞, closing at 49⅝@50½ @50⅜ under yesterday

Oats were traded in in an aimless fashion, with the action of corn guiding prices in their changes. The feeling was easy. Receipts were 190 cars and 125 are estimated for to-morrow There was nothing taken from store. May closed ⅛@½ under yesterday.

Laundering Embroidered Linen.

When laundering embroidered linen, make a strong suds of some white soap and lukewarm water and wash the pieces carefully. The washboard must not be used. Rinse immediately in lukewarm water and then in water slightly blued and hang out to dry. When half dry, lay them out smoothly on a clean cloth which has been laid over a piece of doubled faced white canton flannel and press on the wrong side with a hot iron until they are quite dry. If they are fringed, comb the fringe out carefully with a moderately coarse comb. Ladies' Home Journal.

DEFECTIVE EYESIGHT,
In youth or age, should be scientifically fitted with lenses. The rapid loss of eyesight in age can very often be traced to the neglect of the proper care of the eyes in youth, and cheap, poorly fitted lenses. Errors of eye sight develop most rapidly during school life and should be corrected by accurately-fitted lenses, no matter what the age.
Our optical department is in charge of a SPECIALIST, in both the scientific adjustment of lenses and their manufacture, hence a perfect fit of glasses, from $1 upwards.
Office hours from 9 to 12 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m.
